To,

Principal Secretary Govt. of West Bengal, writers building,

Madam,

The National Commission for Women has planned to celebrate the international Women's day during early March 2012. Since the empowerment of women is an international priority NCW proposes to honour the women who are from the grassroots, not in lime light as such but have fought against all odds with exemplary courage and determination against (1) domestic violence (2) trafficking of women and children (3) against torture/dowry and (4) PCPNDT Act (sex determination of children/elimination of girl children) etc.

As felicitation/encouragement of such women will send a good message among them and others will also be encouraged to safeguard their own interest and prevent atrocities being committed against them.

2. Keeping in view the importance of this subject, I would request that with the State Social Welfare board experience, the names of such women from your state may kindly be recommended with a brief bio data and photograph (in soft copy) to ms-ncw@nic.in

3. I look forward to your kind co-operation and positive response in this matter.

4. NCW at the end will through its Committee appointed for the purpose scrutinize the recommendations prepare a shortlist and select the most deserving women for the award.

Yours sincerely

(Minakshi Ghose)
